WASHINGTON CITY

Affairs of the Freedmen's Bank

Washington July 3—It is reported that some of the depositors in the Freedmen's Bank are selling their pass-books for less than their value either from necessity or from the fact that the Bank Examiner Meigs, after a thorough examination of the affairs of the bank placed its assets (after deducting bad and doubtful debts) at 93 cents on the dollar. The officers of the company say that with proper attention on the part of the management the books will be worth more than that sum and that large dividends will be made at as early a day as practicable.

The Appointment of Minister Marshall Jewell.

Washington July 3—The appointment of Marshall Jewell as Postmaster General is received with [illegible] surprise is expressed that the President should recall a Minister who has not been long at his post, to discharge the duties of a representative office at home. Although Jewell is popular at [illegible] and finds his position agreeable it is well known that he preferred office in his own country to a diplomatic position abroad. Settling his affairs in Russia and the time necessarily occupied on the return voyage will prevent him from entering upon the Postmaster Generalship before the last of August.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco

San Francisco, July 4—The celebration to-day was one of the grandest ever held in this city. The streets were profusely decorated with flags and bunting, and general enthusiasm prevailed. The procession, literary exercises and regatta were the principal attractions. The places of amusement and resort were liberally patronized, and nothing to mar the general festivities has happened up to sundown. Hon. L. E. Pratt delivered the oration.

Sheriff Cunningham, of San Joaquin county, arrested Ah Shoo and Ah Nam, Chinamen, [illegible] in the cigar factory of Koensberger & Co. on Clay street, for having murdered a countryman in Stockton on the 10th of August, 1870. The murdered man was working for a Chinese company there when one night two murderous enemies rushed in upon him. One was armed with a hatchet and the other with a knife and they literally butchered him to pieces. The assassins fled to China and only recently returned to this city. They were taken to Stockton this morning, and will be tried for murder.

San Francisco, July 5—City unusually quiet to-day. No events of interest have [illegible].

The [illegible] yesterday passed off most [illegible] serious accident or disturbance [illegible] during the entire day.

The [illegible] of Hon B P Avery to-day is considered more hopeful, but it will be some time before he will be about again. His confinement during the past two years completely prostrated him and added to his present [illegible] which causes his friends much alarm.

There were eight fires during yesterday, but owing to the promptness and zeal of the Fire [illegible] the total loss will not exceed [illegible].

Rev. John Hemphill pastor of the First Presbyterian Church has returned from his [illegible] tour and this evening delivered a poetic discourse on the Big Trees to a large congregation.

The net proceeds of the Ladies' Fair held at [illegible] Hall in aid of the Louisiana sufferers, amounted to $12 044 15.

Interior California.

Oakland, July 5—There were three alarms of fire here last night. The first was in Jordan's saloon corner Twelfth and Broadway. The second was in Brooklyn in a frame dwelling owned and occupied by Mr Lamb. It was totally destroyed at a loss of $2 000. When the firemen were returning from Brooklyn the third alarm was struck caused by the [illegible] out of a fresh fire in Jordan's saloon which was soon extinguished and little damage done. The origin of the fire in Brooklyn is [illegible], that in Jordan's was the work of an incendiary.

[illegible], July 5—Geo Blakie, a farmer residing near here, was kicked in the head yesterday by a horse and badly injured.

The harvest has commenced in earnest and the crops are turning out splendidly.

NEVADA.

Carson, July 5—A fire broke out in this city about 1 o'clock this morning in Duffy & Co's [illegible] factory. Owing to the lateness of the hour the fire was not discovered until the building was nearly consumed. The fire engines were promptly on the spot and succeeded in saving about $400 worth of sulphur. Fortunately no wind prevailed, and the fire did no further damage. The exact loss is not known but it is supposed to be great. The property was insured for about one-third of its value.

Palisades, July 5—The Fourth had a very [illegible] ending in our village. The Narrow Gauge Railway gave an excursion to Hot creek 20 miles out, and while doing some switching out there, three boys were knocked off the cars. One boy named Warren Perry about ten years of age, falling between the cars which passed over his body and injured him so that he only lived about an hour.

THE BEECHER-TILTON TROUBLE,

New York, June 30—Rev Leonard Bacon to whom the Tilton letter was addressed stated to Rev Dr Buddington of Brooklyn soon after the publication of the letter that if Plymouth Church did not reply within 24 hours, or sue for libel on behalf of its pastor, it would have no case on which it could stand before the Christian world. He also stated that if Tilton had not published that letter, he (Bacon) should have done so.

Theodore Tilton said to a reporter with reference to Beecher's letter asking his forgiveness, that "the letter is in Beecher's handwriting and bears his autograph which will pass in any bank in New York. It was written and dictated by myself and came to me 'from the hand of a friend' as unsolicited as your visit to me now."

DARK HINTS FROM TILTON

Brooklyn June 30—The Brooklyn Eagle publishes an interview with Theodore Tilton concerning the Beecher scandal. Tilton declines to give the name of any one person who had seen the letter of apology which he (Tilton) had published as having been written by Beecher. He also declined to show the letter itself. He declared however that the letter was written and sent to him by Beecher and that he had only printed a portion of it because the remainder bore more heavily on Beecher than the portion quoted.

THE FOURTH.

WHERE AND HOW OBSERVED.

Interesting Accounts of the Manner in Which the Fourth was Celebrated in East Portland, Hillsboro, Salem, Albany, Cascades, Opposite Canemah, Aurora, Powell's Valley, and other points.

Portland and East Portland

The ninety eighth anniversary of American Independence dawned serenely on Portland and we might say all over the domains of Webfoot. Atmospherically speaking the day was a success. Those who contemplated celebrating the day entertained some doubts about the weather proving propitious but upon arising from their downy couches Saturday and making a casual survey of the canopy, all apprehensions vanished for every appearance betokened a bright and glorious day. And such it proved.

At 12 o'clock on Friday night, the brazen tongues of the fire bells proclaimed far and wide that another anniversary of our Nation's Independence was come. Saturday morning at sunrise the bells were again joyfully pealed and a salute fired. Then came the time to throw bunting to the breeze and soon through the gray twilight the national colors were seen floating proudly from the top of every staff in the city. Owners of ships in port caught the patriotic contagion and from every masthead and jack staff were seen flags, pennants and streamers flying. Everybody seemed to realize the character and significance of the day and soon the city was astir. Along the city front at the hours appointed were heard the whistle of the several steamboats, to carry excursionists up and down the rivers. These warning signals were heeded and presently men, women and children were streaming along, bound for the various wharves. It was a national holiday and no one could think of remaining at home. Some embarked on the Willamette Chief for a trip up through the locks, some on the Anne Stewart for a run up the lordly Columbia to the Cascades, some the boats for Kalama, others took the cars for a dash to Hillsboro and others again got aboard the regular train for Aurora. From the earliest gleam of the dawn began the incessant roar and clatter of firecrackers, relieved at intervals by the deafening detonation of the Chinese bombs. Young America had broken loose.

Quite a large share of our population had concluded not to celebrate out of the city. It was for the accommodation of such persons that Messrs Ludwig & Treuer, lessees of the East Portland Park had made extensive arrangements to hold a celebration at that place. The citizens of East Portland with their proverbial liberality and patriotism promptly responded to the invitation extended by these gentlemen above mentioned to occupy the Park on the Fourth and observe the event with the usual time honored ceremonies. A meeting was held and regular officers chosen—President, Vice President, Orator, Reader of the Declaration, Chaplain, etc.—and other necessary arrangements made. The lessees engaged the 21st Infantry Band for the day and procured a considerable quantity of fireworks to display in the evening. They also caused several hundred transparencies to be hung about at intervals through the Park for purposes of illumination after dark. Messrs Ludwig & Treuer certainly deserve much credit for they omitted nothing which could contribute in any manner to the pleasure, convenience and comfort of the public.

About 9 o'clock the boat arrived from Vancouver, having on board the military band and a number of citizens from that place. Soon after arriving, the band escorted the Washington Guard through the principal streets of the city, and then took up the line of march for the Park. Hundreds of men, women and children thronged the sidewalks, watching the procession as the band started across the river, followed the music and crowds to the grounds. Several hundred persons were already assembled at the Park, which were greatly augmented by the arrival of the crowds from this side.

Exercises commenced almost immediately after the arrival of the band and the Washington Guard at the Park. Hon J S M Van Cleave, President of the day, called the assembled crowds to order. Prayer by the Chaplain Rev P Kelly was omitted, that gentleman being unable to be present. John W Kelly, Esq, the Reader of the Declaration of Independence, was next introduced. That gentleman came forward, and read the Declaration in a loud, clear and forcible manner. Mr Kelly acquitted himself with much credit, for we have seldom heard that old, familiar article read to better advantage. Following the reading came an excellent selection from the band. Oration being next in order, Hon W W Thayer was introduced. He delivered on that occasion an able and interesting oration which was listened to throughout with marked attention. The crowded state of our columns precludes its publication. An excellent selection, 'Poet and Peasant,' was next rendered by the band, and the literary exercises of the day were at an end.

During the entire afternoon the crowds spent the time in eating, swinging, exercising at the shooting gallery, playing croquet, strolling about the pleasant shady ground, and a variety of other amusements. At intervals the band discoursed some of their best musical selections which caused the time to pass in a very agreeable manner. After the out door concert the large platform was cleared off and dancing begun, and was kept up spiritedly until after dark, in which hundreds participated. After dark transparencies were lighted, of which there were several hundred. These were of all shades of color, and yielding a subdued light at intervals all through the grove presented a grotesque but pleasant sight. At 9 o'clock the display of fireworks began and lasted nearly half an hour. The pyrotechnic display, though very greatly inferior to many which we have witnessed in this city, was nevertheless very creditable considering that they were purchased by private parties. At the close of the fireworks the large crowd dispersed for their homes, wearied but well satisfied with the day's pleasure and excitement. During the day there was a constant stream of humanity coming and going from the grounds. At the least we should estimate that no less than 1 800 persons visited the Park in the course of the day. Two thousand persons at the lowest estimate were present at the display of fireworks in the evening. Refreshments in abundance were dispensed on the ground and no one had reason to complain of not getting plenty to eat and drink. Thus wound up to a pleasant close the celebration at East Portland Park.

The Regatta.

One of the most attractive features of the celebration in Portland was the sailing regatta which came off on Saturday afternoon along the city front. The regatta began at 1 o'clock and lasted two hours. It was witnessed by a large number of persons and was the source of much excitement among lovers of out door sports. The boats started from the boat house at the foot of Pine street. They sailed down the river nearly to the head of Swan Island. Rounding the first buoy near the island the boats started back. Passing along the city front the contestants made directly for the foot of Ross Island. After rounding an anchor boat near the island, the rival crafts entered on the home stretch, the objective point being La Chapelle's boat house, the starting place. The following boats entered for the regatta: The Nautilus, owned by La Chapelle and sailed by Robert Harper; the Cricket, owned and sailed by R Brown; Jottie, owned by La Chapelle, and sailed by L P Butler; Nettie, owned by A B Hallock and sailed by T B Trivett; Swallow, owned and sailed by A N Whitlaw. The boats came in in the following order: First Nautilus; second Cricket; third Jottie; fourth Nettie; fifth and last Swallow. The distance sailed was about eight miles and the time consumed was just two hours—the boats starting at 1 and completing the race at 3 o'clock. A splendid breeze was [illegible] and some good sailing was done by the rival craft. Towards the close the contest became very exciting, but despite good sailing, a stiff breeze, skillful and judicious management, the Nautilus came out victorious. The regatta was one of the most prominent features of the day.

The Fourth at Hillsboro

CELEBRATION BY THE GRANGES OF WASHINGTON AND YAMHILL COUNTIES

As this was the first public demonstration that the Grangers of these two counties have made, the event was looked forward to with great interest by the members of the Order and their numerous friends, and they were not disappointed. The morning was bright, the day was charming and the attendance was large. The train from Portland was crowded to its utmost capacity and the cars from the south brought eight hundred visitors.

At 10 o'clock the procession, composed of the different Granges in full regalia, headed by a large American flag and the Forest Grove Band, formed at the Hillsboro Court House and marched to the railroad station to receive the members and friends that came by the north and south trains. In this procession there were 536 members of the Order. Each Grange was headed by a banner with the other insignias of office. The Beaverton Grange No 100, are in favor of co-operation; they had a banner with the motto "United we stand." The West Union Grange No 172, had for their motto the two great commandments, "Love to God and Love to Man." The Hillsboro Grange No 73 had inscribed on their banner a chapter on political economy, "The Farm the Prop of the Nation." The Cornelius Grange No 63 had this practical motto on their banner, "We Pay as We Go." The Forest Grove Grange No 61 had on their banner the query "Who Comes?" The Greenville Grange No 43, are hopeful, for they had on their banner "The Patrons Forever." The Columbia Grange No 89, are in for united action; their motto was "Rally Round the Grange." The Pharmington Grange No 10 are in for working and praying; they had inscribed on their banner "Godspeed the Plow."

At eleven o'clock the procession marched to the Hillsboro Park in the same order as they came to the railroad station, with flags and banners and headed by the band.

THE PARK

Contains six acres of land purchased two months since by the citizens of Hillsboro. It is still in a rough state but as much has been done in so short a time as to satisfy the observer that it will soon be a place that will do credit to the enterprise and taste of the people of the town and be an attractive place for visitors on public occasions. It has the advantage of being convenient to Hillsboro and the way stations of the Oregon Central Railroad. It is well supplied with springs of excellent water.

THE CELEBRATION

Comfortable seats were provided for visitors. When the officers of the day took the platform there were not less than from 2 500 to 3 000 people on the ground. Judge Humphrey, District Deputy Master of the Granges, occupied the Chair and called the meeting to order. The Forest Grove Band supplied the music. The Rev Wm Jolly, Chaplain of the day, offered a short appropriate prayer; Mr James B Upton read, in a clear and commanding voice, the Declaration of Independence. President T I Campbell of Monmouth College delivered the

ORATION

Which was listened to with marked attention. The speaker sustained his high reputation as a deep and independent thinker and an able and attractive orator. After an appropriate introduction, he proceeded to lay down some of the fundamental principles upon which our Government is founded and by which our liberties are secured, by stating that the principle which underlies our Government had its origin in the remote past—it is that individual liberty which forms a contrast with centralized power. The world's history is but a delineation of the incessant antagonisms and fierce conflicts between these two great principles, resulting alternately as the one or the other triumphed in liberty or despotism. The centralizing spirit culminated in the persons of Alexander, Cæsar and Napoleon, driving peace from the earth, inaugurating universal slavery and deluging the world in blood. Far away in the north of Europe, amidst its primeval forests along the banks of the rushing Rhine, individual liberty was maturing its strength for a glorious triumph. It found expression in the person of Luther, who struck the shackles from the mind enslaved by Papal despotism and gave to each individual the right to think for himself. Once aroused this principle could never be laid to rest, for the mind untrammeled is ever progressive, ever tending to something higher and better in the scale of intelligence. What is liberty but the freedom of the mind and the unrestrained exercise and unlimited use of all its faculties? This could not be attained under the political systems of the old world. It was reserved for the new to mould and fashion this great principle into a system which should secure at the same time social equality, political and religious liberty. Washington and his compeers were the instruments in the hands of Providence to accomplish this mighty work. Right manfully did they perform the work, first preparing the way by the perils and toils, the patience and triumphs of the Revolutionary war. Through all that long unequal contest George Washington was the bright particular star to which all eyes were turned, and when the last battle was fought, the glorious victory won, he added the distinguishing lustre to his great name by laying down his sword, declining a crown tendered by a grateful people and returning to the peaceful pursuits of husbandry. He was not permitted however long to enjoy the quiet he so much loved. The counsels of the nation demanded his wisdom. The liberty for which they had fought, individual liberty and perfect equality, must be made sure in a Constitution defining, limiting and guaranteeing life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness to all. The time had fully come, the elements of that great principle had been developed and matured, ready to be garnered up and placed in a permanent monumental form. Nor were there wanting wise heads and generous hearts to construct out of the pure element this glorious temple of freedom in which the Goddess of Liberty might make her abode forever. The Constitution of the United States, superior to every other human production, is second only to the oracles of God. It is the full embodiment of that divine principle of which Washington and his compeers were the living exponents. It is the influence of this Constitution over a hardy, free, self reliant people that has given these United States their incomparable superiority over Canada on the north and Mexico on the south, that has spread its dominion from ocean to ocean, that has whitened every sea with its canvas and filled every port with its commerce. Here then is the Magna Charta prepared by our revolutionary ancestors with foresight almost prophetic and wisdom almost divine, in which is embalmed that great principle whence emanates all true liberty and by which is fostered every pure institution. Responsive to its dictation the great national heart beats with no feeble pulsation. Streaming forth from its life arteries in every quarter, the indomitable energy and iron will of our enterprising race have been displayed, whether in the terrible arts of war or the peaceful pursuits of industry, whether in the labored investigations of science or the practical applications of art—everywhere and in every department of industry the whole continent feels its power. The intensified spirit of labor makes the hills and valleys re-echo with the sound of the ax and the blow of the hammer. The rushing keel, with its gilded palace, the flying engine with its extended train, the march of science and the spread of knowledge—all are but the effects of this principle of individual liberty [illegible] hold the genius and spirit which it done [illegible] call forth and develop.

But we pause to inquire, Are we secure in our liberty? Is there no peril? Has the old opposing centralizing spirit retired vanquished and been destroyed? From without we fear no power on earth. Our navies can protect our shores and our army of freemen can repel all invasion. Are we equally secure from within? Is there no cause for alarm—for action? What means this spirit now uprising among the people, this organization of Granges, this combination of the laboring and producing classes? The note of alarm was struck, and with the quick intuition of self preservation they gathered in council. Like an electric shock it thrilled through the entire nation. Swift and electric are its pulses. From Washington, the great national heart, pulsations send out undulating waves in every direction until the border counties in the remote States are reached, and the hardy yeomanry, the sons of toil, by hundreds and thousands, with their wives and daughters, are gathered in councils. Is there no cause for all this? Have they been aroused by a phantom—a dream, a hallucination? Is it the hope of realizing ten cents more for a bushel of wheat or of purchasing calico for a cent and a half less on the yard?

Has this great movement—this mighty upheaval of a nation's sovereignty no more worthy principle than sordid avarice? Has it no better foundation than selfish greed in base minds? The non-remunerative price of produce and the prostration of commerce are not the cause but the conditions only which excited this national impulse. Superficial observers suppose that when middle men have been broken down and a commission saved, when commerce has been paralyzed and merchants driven from the land, all will have been accomplished that was contemplated. But the considerate and thoughtful look beyond these mere conditions to a real cause adequate to the grand result. They recognize the old centralizing spirit at work. Taking advantage of the demoralization incident to and flowing from our civil war, it commenced by corrupting legislators with ill gotten gain, courting centralization and fostering monopolies. Through these the wealth of the nation is becoming concentrated in gigantic corporations with unlimited power. With coffers full of gold they are standing in open market in legislative halls purchasing corrupt and corruptible politicians sent to legislate for the people.

Monopolies forming themselves into rings and linking one into another are binding the nation in fetters more galling than that European despotism from which Washington and his compeers freed us. The people feel it—they feel it in the price of their produce—they feel it in the burden of taxes heaped upon them—they feel it in the increased salaries of officers—they feel it in the pampered aristocracies which overgrown wealth is causing to look with contempt upon labor.

Here is the true cause of this sublime movement which calls the laboring men into council. And who should take the lead in this grand effort to stay the tide of corruption, to check the centralization of power in monopolies and correct the abuses heaped upon them by greedy politicians, but farmers? Farmers, the bone and sinew, the heart and nerve of the nation, who create its wealth in peace and its strength in war. Washington was a farmer, a patron of husbandry. He was called from the field of industry to the defence of his country to establish independence, liberty and social equality. To the farmers of our day we must look for the preservation of these principles through the ballot box, which he established with his sword. They will not prove themselves degenerate sons of noble sires. While their halls are graced with the presence of grave matrons and fair maidens, while the approving smile of beauty gives an additional charm to wisdom, they cannot prove recreant to the sacred trust bequeathed them by their revolutionary ancestors. When the strength and wisdom of worthy manhood are sustained by the grace and beauty of lovely woman, no power on earth, not even the moneyed monopolies backed by corrupt politicians, can resist them. They will preserve and transmit unimpaired the gift of the great Washington, our free institutions, to coming generations.

The speaker finished with a lengthened defence of the organization of Granges, showing their social, moral and material advantages—a school for educating its members to independent thought and action and co-operation for their common rights and liberties. The address was received with marked tokens of approbation.

A grand picnic followed. Dancing and swings were in order. Base ball was indulged in by the Yamhill and Washington county clubs, in which the latter got a good beating by 35 to 15. At 4:30 P M home was the word, and at 5:30 the trains north and south were on their way to their respective destinations with a dense crowd of jolly visitors who came for and enjoyed a grand holiday.

At the Cascades

The shrill whistle of the steamer Anne Stewart, at an early hour on Saturday morning, gave unmistakable token that those who proposed to celebrate by taking an excursion up the broad Columbia would have to hasten preparations if they desired to be in time. Streams of men, women and children were soon pouring aboard, so that by the time the last toot of the whistle was given between three and four hundred persons were on board. At 8 o'clock A M the steamer swung out into the stream and turned her prow down the river. A lively air from the East Portland Band, which accompanied the excursion, was struck up at the same moment, and with pennants gaily streaming to the morning breeze the Anne Stewart with her precious freight of humanity moved majestically away from her moorings and passed from sight. Accompanying the steamer was a commodious barge covered with canvas for dancing purposes. Many young ladies and gentlemen availed of the opportunity afforded, and before three miles were passed the floor of the barge was crowded with gay dancers who were waltzing in lively [illegible] to the strains of the cornet and violin. Vancouver was reached in due time, where a number were taken on board, and the steamer continued on up the river. Three o'clock arrived ere the Lower Cascades was reached. Here the excursionists debarked and adjourned to an adjacent grove. About 100 persons took the cars and visited the Upper Cascades, returning in time for the steamer. Those who remained at the Lower Cascades passed the time in an agreeable manner between walking about, swinging, lunching and amusing games.

At the grounds an oration was delivered by J W Ryan Esq. No other exercises of a literary character however were gone through with. After remaining on the grounds about two hours the steamer started back at 5 o'clock. Music and dancing occupied the time of the excursionists on the homeward trip. The steamer arrived at her wharf at 10 o'clock. There were no accidents during the trip and all the participants enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent.

At Aurora.

Some twenty five or thirty citizens went up to Aurora on the morning train where they had arranged to meet about the same number of friends from Salem. The whole number of visitors perhaps did not exceed one hundred, but the day was most pleasantly spent in the spacious park at that place, which is now most truly in its loveliest attire. The forenoon was spent in rambling through the gardens and shady bowers and in games and general sociability. About noon the venerable Dr Keil, the founder of the Aurora colony, delighted the visitors by kindly entering the park with a number of German ladies, the singers of the place, who sang a number of pieces in their native tongue. Although some present could not understand the language of the song, all were highly pleased and charmed with the beautiful music and the kind attention of the ladies. The Aurora String Band also discoursed some beautiful airs. The guests took dinner at the Aurora Hotel, which had made special preparations for the occasion and served up a most excellent repast. The day passed off to [illegible] and though no [illegible] declaration took place all felt [illegible] and were [illegible] to live in this great and glorious country.

The Excursion and Picnic Through the Locks

The picnic given by and under the auspices of [illegible] Lodge Daughters of Rebekah was skillfully planned and successfully carried out. At half past [illegible] three hundred persons gathered on the elegant steamer Willamette Chief and [illegible] the hour were soon with [illegible] towards the Locks, the band under Professor [illegible] enlivening the trip. Additions to the party were made at Milwaukie, and at Oregon City the [illegible] having been previously [illegible] were at the landing in full force. They were [illegible] and [illegible] the Chief headed for the Locks. A half hour was occupied in going through, many of the passengers walking along the banks. It was a novelty to many, a description having already been given them in the papers. After leaving the canal a few [illegible] a [illegible] landing [illegible]. Landing effected, a general scattering and grouping of families and friends in the groves followed and the picnic fairly commenced. The [illegible] dancing commenced on a platform erected for the occasion by those so disposed, while others rambled in the pleasant fields and groves or gathered on the hillsides to watch the mazy dance. At the whistle of the steamer called the festive crowd for the return, and soon were homeward bound. At 7 o'clock all reached home tired and happy. Much credit is due the Daughters for the [illegible] in carrying out the details of the picnic and making it a success, and we trust it has rewarded them pecuniarily.

Powell's Valley

In pursuance of announcement the citizens of Powell's Valley and vicinity united in the celebration of the Fourth. The point elected was a very pleasant grove in the Valley. Between five and six hundred persons were present. Rev J Hobbs officiated as chaplain. Mr [illegible] read the Declaration and Hon J J Caples delivered the oration. All unite in saying that it was one of the best celebrations which has taken place in that section for years. After the literary exercises were concluded the crowd adjourned to the tables on which were placed a bountiful supply of the creature comforts. No accident happened and nothing transpired to mar the pleasure of the day. The good people of Powell's Valley wish it to be understood that when a real old genuine celebration is to be given they can always be counted in. They have plenty of the true fire of patriotism and the spirit of generosity to carry it successfully through. Nothing is done by halves, and those who saw the tables groaning under the burden of the good things of the land and were recipients of such whole souled hospitality as was manifested can bear abundant testimony.

Burlesque Celebration at Salem.

At this point the glorious Fourth was duly celebrated by the "Stay at Homes," who, not wishing to participate in any of the celebrations given in Marion county, got up something on their "own hook." It was substantially in the following manner:

ORDER OF PROCESSION

The procession was formed at 10 o'clock A M at the corner of Marion street, consisting of "Young America" headed by a youthful band with drum and horse, and numerous flags. Pretty girls personating the States and Territories brought up the rear and took their station on the stand; also a small procession consisting of the "Orator of the Day," the Choir and the Reader of the Declaration, all consisting of ladies, and dressed in appropriate style, especially the Choir, which represented the fashions of '76.

The ancient choir, with voices tremulous with age, after taking their key from the accordion, proceeded to sing "America." It was done in a style worthy of our ancestors.

The authoress, Mrs I R Moores, being hoarse, the "Grand Marshal of the Day," Mrs H H Bowman, read the Declaration, which was a good burlesque on T Jefferson, and read in a clear voice as follows:

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for the female portion of humanity to assert their rights and assume among the powers of the earth the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and a regenerated society entitle them, a decent respect to the opinion of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to this course.

We hold these truths to be self evident: that all men are created equal and women are created ditto, and that the parts of the second part are endowed with certain inalienable rights; that among them are life, liberty and woman's rights; that to secure these rights, especially the latter, governments are instituted among men; that whenever any form of government becomes oppressive or destructive of these ends it is the right of the people, i.e. the women, to alter or abolish it and to institute a new state of things, laying foundations on such principles as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence will dictate that governments and fashions long established should not be changed for light and transient causes, and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind, and also women, are more disposed to suffer while such evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms and styles to which they have been accustomed; but when a long train of abuses and usurpations (N. B. This applies only to women, as the men don't wear long trains, although they do tread on ours) pursuing invariably the same object evince a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is the right, it is the duty of the undersigned, i.e. the women, to throw off such Government and provide new guards for their future security.

Such has been the patient sufferance of woman, and such is now the necessity which constrains her to demand a change of the present system of things.

The history of the assumed Lord of creation is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over us. To prove this let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused to pass laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has erected a multitude of new offices to harass our people and eat out our substance, without making a fair division of the same to the undersigned, who are of right entitled to half of the most lucrative offices, including Coroners, Supervisors and Notary Publics.

He has persisted in taxing our property, imposing duties on [illegible] Lily White and Switches, to the wholly or in part of June, without giving us the right of representation.

He has abridged us in our "Pin Money," thus cutting us off in the purchase of sundry choice and necessary articles for the adornment of our persons and ornamentation of our home.

He has compelled us to carry our own [illegible] while his are propelled by team, and always outdoes us in the way at evening parties.

He has insisted on pullcrust for pies when butter and lard are the highest, and then complained because of our extravagance in household affairs.

He has expended tons of American brains and thousands of dollars in the invention and improvement of the telegraph and printing press, but "nary red" for a washing machine.

He has inhumanly and without a shadow of sense charged us ten cents for Merrimac calico, when he ought to have sold it for six.

He hangs around our parlors and swings on our gates at unseasonable hours in the night time to do his sparking, instead of calling around in business hours, thus consuming kerosene or candles at an unnecessary expense, which if saved would keep us supplied with chewing gum.

Lastly—He has deserted us to-day, leaving us to commemorate our national anniversary alone while he is enjoying the pleasure of a ride to Dixie or Silverton.

And finally—He is a bulk.

After the reading the choir favored the audience with our grandmother's "Star Spangled Banner," with interludes on the accordion. Then the orator of the day, Mr I N Gilbert, read in good style the following:

ORATION

WHEREAS, The patriotic citizens of Salem having failed to celebrate the glorious ninety-eighth anniversary of independence, we, the daughters of our ancestors who fought, bled and died for that banner now waving in the gentle breeze, do declare our independence of all such men, and will until the centennial celebration continue to observe the Fourth of July, our only national holiday. And with the heroism of Barbara Frietchie exclaim,

Freedom! or wings to fly
Freedom! or leave to cry

To-day, when ten thousand patriotic throats are trumpeting the praises of the founders of this nation to millions of enthusiastic auditors, when every American man, full of the dignity of his share in the joint stock sovereignty of the people, is rearing himself back on his hind feet and congratulating himself on the fact of his being a free, enlightened, independent American citizen, we in this comparatively calm and secluded shade may profitably leave others to tell of the glories of Bunker Hill, of the sorrows of Valley Forge, of the vicissitudes of the heroic war and of the final achievement of our nationality, while we enquire into the principles which caused and justified the great struggle whose 98th anniversary we to-day celebrate. The Declaration of Independence (which has just been read) enumerates many causes as justification of the Colonists in breaking the ties binding them to their mother country. But their number does not strengthen the argument, for they can all be more or less directly traced to violations of one great truism, the enunciation of which, echoing from Massachusetts and Pennsylvania to Virginia and the Carolinas, united every patriot—"No taxation without representation." In these four words we have the whole theory of that righteous opposition to tyranny, the success of which has made us a nation. And it would have been well if this great axiom had been preserved in its purity, without restriction or qualification. But with the [illegible] of [illegible] our first legislators restricted the application of this great principle to white male citizens. These two little adjectives! What have they cost us? The first was only wiped out at the cost of hundreds of millions of dollars; the last remains yet a reproach to the logical capacity of our statesmen and a source of injustice not to be measured by dollars or estimated by numbers. And we rejoice that the long looked for day has come when can be heard over the land the proudest exclamation of man, "I am an American!" And when ladies are allowed the ballot, they too can say, "I now am proud of being an American woman citizen." And have you not seen

The comet, he is on his way
And singing as he flies,
The whizzing planets shrink before
The spectre of the skies.

Ah well may regal orbs burn blue
And satellites turn pale
For many, many are the [illegible]
That into ranks will fall.

Ninety-eight years ago to-day there was no celebration in Salem. This fact I have learned from an old man of the "49" settlers. What a stride Oregon has made in ninety eight years! We are here to add another to the long list of celebrations of 1874, and we are fully sensible of the importance of the day and the occasion. Anniversaries are at all times pleasant. How many of us love the return of the wedding anniversary (I mean the married folks), some rejoicing in prospect of silver or china presents, but more in an overwhelming display of tin or wooden ware. And these and all similar occasions are enjoyable, because ancient and modern custom so fashioned them. The old people and the young folks of Plymouth celebrate the landing of the Pilgrims, not particularly because there was anything strange or startling in their voyage, but because it calls to mind an important event in the history of our country. The Odd Fellows have their anniversaries, and the Freemasons too do not forget their old St John's Day, and I am told even the missionaries of the Fiji and Sandwich Islands have their annual celebrations, and they like them much better now than when the islanders used to eat the missionaries.

But we celebrate the Fourth of July here to-day because we've nothing else to do. We can't cross the river to Dixie or travel to Silverton, and though we have no strong minded orator to talk fluently of things likely to happen a thousand years from now, or a band of music to give us national airs that stir within us our national pride, still we can celebrate here in this beautiful grove, with neighbors and friends, and add another event of kind remembrance this day has given us. And that you may ever know where to find us, our motto is first in war, peace, hearts of the gentlemen.

Frequent applause greeted the speaker, and after the oration's close dinner was announced. This was the crowning ceremony, and surely a nicer "spread" was never seen beneath the shadow of Salem's firs. The most delicious cakes, chicken and pie, strawberries and raspberries swimming in cream, and plenty of hot coffee flowed and abounded. Even the boys—those irrepressibles—behaved pretty well considering it was the Fourth.

About two o'clock a second procession emerged from Moore's corner, headed by two conspicuous figures on horseback. Several masquers followed a huge bottle, a cabbage leaf with somebody under it, and a most ridiculous Cupid with tarleton wings that looked as though the feathers had all been picked out. These proceeded to the stand in the same path taken by the youth in the morning. A high toned oration followed by Mrs J[illegible]s, accompanied by graceful and eloquent gestures and a far reaching voice, the closing sentences of which we think we have heard before, but never with more impressive earnestness:

When a woman wills she will, you may depend on't
And when she won't she won't, and there's the end on't

At Albany.

A dispatch from Albany, received yesterday, says:

The Fourth was celebrated in a magnificent manner in this city yesterday. Large delegations from Portland and Salem Fire Departments arrived on express the evening before, and on the morning of the Fourth all of the Corvallis Fire Department arrived on a steamer chartered for the purpose at 10 A M. The procession formed at the Court House, led by the brass band of Albany and Corvallis. The Liberty Car was fitted up magnificently. Arriving at Hackleman's Grove in the eastern part of the city the usual ceremonies were observed, and a fine oration delivered by Hon Mr Shoup of Portland was well received and appreciated. In the afternoon drills of the different Fire Departments and exhibition of the Plug Uglies made a fine display. Fireworks, a theatrical performance by the Phelps troupe, and a grand ball in the evening closed the exercises and everybody retired feeling happy.

Miscellaneous.

Several hundred persons assembled at Sullivan's spring, a short distance east of Holladay's addition. The celebration was given under the auspices of the temperance people. We understand that a very pleasant time was experienced. The day was spent in lunching, conversation and in various games.

About twenty ladies and gentlemen boarded the little sloop Anne Dalin at 9 o'clock in the morning. All sails were set, and Captain Wiley, in charge, directed the prow southward. The wind was light and little headway was made. They had a good time on the boat, and after arriving at Milwaukie the party adjourned to the woods for the purpose of picking wild fruits. The little vessel returned at 8 o'clock P M in tow of a small boat, and being further aided along in her homeward career by a long pair of oars kept on the boat in the event of a calm. The ladies sang sweetly as they approached the shore. The trip was a slow one but the voyagers were as happy as clams at high tide. Throughout, Nimrods were to be seen at almost every corner early in the morning fitted out for an onslaught on the inhabitants of the forest. Before 10 A M they had entered the woods. Many returned in the evening, others remaining out late to get a better hunt or to make the most of the day's sport, whether it brought good results or not.

About 200 persons assembled back of Robinson's Hill—the affair being under the auspices of the Scandinavian Society. As may be supposed they had a splendid time.

FARMING ITEMS

The crops in Lane county are now looking splendidly and no better prospects for grain have ever been known.

Farmers complain and say that there will not be much over half a crop of hay cut in Powder River Valley this season. Grain of all kinds looks well.

Wool is coming into Jacksonville in considerable quantities, though a large number of sheep perished last winter. Twenty five cents a pound seems to be the ruling price.

Fall wheat is beginning to fill. Thousands of acres of it stands six and seven feet high. It is too high—too much straw in proportion to the length of the heads. Nevertheless, there will be a good yield.

Prices for lands in Lane county vary from $10 to $30 per acre for land under cultivation, owing to its nearness or remoteness from market, quality of land etc. Good unimproved land can be purchased all the way from $3 to $20 per acre in that county.

A meeting was held at the Timmons place, on Lewis river W T on the 28th inst, to consider the propriety of organizing a Grange. After an exhaustive discussion, not only of the subject in hand, but of several "ologies" and "isms" in no wise connected with it, the meeting adjourned till after the 4th.

The people of Josephine county are becoming excited on the subject of Angora goat raising. All think that Southern Oregon and especially Josephine county offers great inducements to those that would engage in the business of grazing these animals. The mild climate, the extensive country for grazing these animals to be had, as it were, for almost anything, would be quite an item in that county.

The Forest Grove Independent says the crops are looking remarkably fine now in Washington county. Mr Phillips' field of wheat that had begun to lodge from the heavy rains stands upright and will make a large yield. The spring crops look better than at this time last year. Some early oats will be ready for the scythe next week. The haying season has begun and the hay crop will be better than for many years.

M Wilkins of Lane county informs the Record that he is about to send forty fleeces of his new Oxfordshire wool to a delaine manufacturer at Philadelphia with instructions to make returns respecting the quality, length, strength of fibre and general desirableness of the wool for use in that market. The intention is to secure a comparative estimate of the value and quality of Oregon wool, which will be of value to the country.

A correspondent sends us the following items from Columbia county under date of July 3d: The hay crop in Clatskanie valley will be about double what it was last year. The potato blight has made its appearance and we will not have over one third of an average crop. The Bryant Bros are putting a planer in their cedar mill and will soon be ready to furnish Portland with the best of planed cedar and flooring. The new dam at George Barr's saw and grist mill gave way a few days since. The logs and timbers that came rushing down tore the water wheel from its fastenings and carried it about 100 yards; damage $600.

Messrs E S Smith and W C Wallace went up the Puyallup valley last week looking at the country and examining a coal deposit thirty miles from town. They found the coal, and plenty of it, but it is of the character of the Seattle, Renton and Cedar Mountain coal and—they left it. With the valley however, like every one else going into it, they were perfectly delighted, and assert that Tacoma has as good a back country there as any place in the world. For twenty seven miles back, with an average width of three, the Puyallup valley cannot be beat. Beautiful farms are dotted all over it, and grain, hops, gardens and orchards are looking fine. The White and Stuck valleys are of the same character and all looking to Tacoma as their future outlet and market. Unstinted praise is given that region by all who visit it.

WILLAMETTE BAPTIST ASSOCIATION

This Association met in Forest Grove last week. It is composed of twelve churches, occupying the northern portion of the State—is one of six similar bodies occupying Oregon and Washington Territory.

This meeting is its 36th annual meeting, it having been formed in 1848.

The officers elected this year are Rev Geo C Chandler D D, Moderator; Hon W Carey Johnson, Clerk, and Hon Henry Warren, Treasurer.

The ministers present were Addison Jones, of Salem; J A Wirth, of Oregon City; A R Medbury, of Portland; Mark Bailey and E Russ, of McMinnville College; Ezra Fisher, of Dalles City; J J Clarke, of Salmon Creek in Washington Territory; Sterling Hill, Sunday School Missionary of the Baptist State Convention; S E Sears, Colporter of the American Baptist Publication and Bible Society; G C Chandler D D, of Forest Grove, and E C Hill, of Albany, Financial Agent.

Among the delegates present officially representing churches were six women.

The report on Home Missions and State of Religion was written by Mrs Jones, wife of the Salem pastor, she having been a member of the committee on that subject. It was very favorably commented upon.

The statistics show that ten years ago the membership of the Association was 158. It is now 476, a little more than three times as large. They also show that during the past year there have been added to the churches by immersion 34, by letter 33, by relation 7, by restoration 4. During the same period the losses have been by letter 32, by exclusion 7, by erasure 11, by death 1, and 1 church disbanded 8—showing a net gain of 10.

There was an improved feeling also upon the subject of education, and much time was spent by the members consulting about how to concentrate the energies of the Baptists of Oregon and Washington Territory in the endowment and support of McMinnville College. The Financial Agent reported an endowment fund in notes of which he had no doubt $20 000 would be collected.

There was an advanced state of feeling on the temperance question, a set of strong resolutions being adopted by a rising vote, and two hours of Sunday being devoted to addresses on the relations of the temperance work to religious success.

The next session is to be held in June 1875, at Dalles City.

A Californian who tied one end of a rope around his waist and lassoed a cow with the other reports that at first he thought that he had the cow, but at the end of the first half mile he became convinced that the cow had him.

The Perseverance Black Sand Mining Company, organized to work auriferous sands in Coos county, filed its certificate of incorporation in the Secretary of State's office at Sacramento last week. The capital stock is $675 000.

Benjamin S Clowes has a wheat field a short distance north of Stockton, which is supposed to be the finest in America. It contains 500 acres, and the yield is placed by competent judges at 60 bushels to the acre.

MONDAY MORNING JULY 6 1874

THE WORK OF CONGRESS

The session of Congress that has just closed was in some respects a remarkable session Chosen by the people under circumstances peculiarly calculated to stir up the masses to the most careful and thorough scrutiny of those they would send to represent them in the halls of National legislation it was natural to expect the members would make more than ordinary efforts to meet the manifest demands of the country It was natural to expect that this more than most of its predecessors would prove to be a people's Congress The demand of the country for some practical solution of the great problem of transportation to the seaboard from the interior of the continent the clamor in the West and South for an indefinite watering of the currency the pressure of gigantic railway and ocean transportation companies for subsidies, the money panic of September and the consequent collapse of great business interests in all the old States all these together with many matters of minor moment combined to direct the attention of the people to Congress to an unusual degree

The Congress has adjourned, and the record it made is a part of the history of the past, and may now be examined as a completed fact What has it done? Has it fulfilled the hopes the people entertained of it? Have they whom the people intrusted with their highest concerns quitted themselves like men?

What the people expected, no one could say definitely They wanted results, but who could say by what manner of legislation those results could be secured There were none who did not perceive the disorder of the times and the importance to the whole country of devising some cure for the evils under which the industries of the country were languishing But who could point out the road to relief? There was no agreement anywhere upon the details of the remedy

Congress did nothing upon the transportation question The people themselves did not know what they wanted done in this regard They wished cheaper and better facilities for transportation but they protested against any further subsidies being given by the Government to carrying enterprises Their demands appeared to be contradictory, and Congress stood still How could it have commended itself better?

Congress allowed itself to be driven to attempt the resuscitation of the business of the country, at the expense of the national honor, by debasing the currency and the President interposed his final negative Practically the matter ended there, as the subsequent compromise had nothing in it worth much consideration one way or another On the currency it is much the same as if nothing had been attempted

Thus much of what was not done But what was done? The double salary grab of the last previous session was repealed The law that made such infamies as the Sanborn contracts possible, was repealed The pernicious moiety system that served the purpose of a standing bribe to such scoundrels as Jayne, was abolished The frauds and corruptions in the management of the affairs of the District of Columbia, were unearthed, and the cancer was taken out by the roots A law was passed to suppress the relic of barbarism which, in Utah, has made a foul stain upon our civilization, and to enable the officers of the Government to enforce the laws of the land despite the opposition of the American Mohammedans who, hid in their mountain fortress, have defied the power of the nation so long

These are some of the salient points in the history of the last session of Congress They do not embrace all that was done They are those high headlands which one sees at once when he turns his eyes toward the subject of general legislation for the whole country

It is not difficult to find some matters wherein nearly all reasonable people will agree that Congress fell short of its best possibilities. Sins both of omission and commission might, no doubt, be laid at the door of that body, but unless we judge with too little severity, its offenses will be found to be but venial All in all, we cannot but think the impartial critic will decide that this Congress has done well in that it has done so little that is ill, and in that it has undone some of the bad deeds of its predecessors.

INTERESTING TO THE "OUTS."

The course of office seeking and office holding does not always run smoothly There is occasionally an exciting scene in connection with the making and unmaking of men at Washington The contest over the Chief Justiceship last winter, in which Oregon figured so conspicuously on both sides, set matters going at a very lively gait And then came the tilt of Butler against all Massachusetts except Butler, in which the Essex statesman carried the field, securing the appointment of Simmons to the Boston Custom House The "cradle of liberty," rocked with such unprecedented violence on that memorable occasion, that it shook the earth all the way down the coast to the National Capitol, and strung all the metropolitan journals—and, of course the provincial likewise—to a new tune which they ceased not to play for half a hundred days—Sundays probably excepted And lately we had the nomination of Judge Richardson to the bench of the Court of Claims, just after he had been forced to give up the keys of the nation's strong box and this was a very amusing scene, indeed, to those who could so far forget the indecency of his appointment as to be able to appreciate the ludicrous aspect of the case The President had the fear of neither the people nor the Senate before his eyes, and the name of the decapitated Secretary of the Treasury was sent in as nominee for the Court of Claims without much consultation with those Republican Senators who think they run the Republican party and the country The nomination was a bombshell, and the scatterment of the crowd of Senators who imagined themselves in a position to be struck by the pieces, was instantaneous and promiscuous One was sick another had just received a telegram demanding his presence immediately among his constituents at the town of—say Red Dog—and the third expected in a few days to bury his dear niece, whose dying couch he must visit forthwith The number of Senators who had married a wife or bought a piece of land or purchased a yoke of oxen and therefore could not be present at that feast was amazing But enough were left—barely enough—to vote for the confirmation of Richardson

The latest of the entertainments of this class at which the country has had an opportunity of gazing was that in connection with the attempt to remake Boss Shepherd after the investigations into his District of Columbia frauds had ended in the abolishment of the government he had corrupted He was named by the President as one of the Commissioners under the new law to administer the affairs of the District The success of the President in forcing Richardson upon the country was supposed to be a test of his power over the Senate But the panic was greater now than on that occasion The Republican Senators lacked the courage to face the President and oppose the confirmation openly, but on the other hand they had not the boldness to support it and face the people When the vote was taken in Executive session there were only forty two of the seventy four Senators present to respond The Democrats to a man were in their seats because being to a man opposed to the President, they were opposed to the nomination, opposed to it possibly a little more strongly than they would have been had it been a proper one to be made But thirty two of the Republicans had panicked, and were not to be found. The excitement outside is reported to have run high Back and forth in the anterooms and vestibules before the closed doors of the Senate Chamber walked continually, rapidly, impatiently, a crowd of lobbyists Shepherd himself was on the ground ready to marshal his hosts in case an hour's recess or delay, which he hoped for, should be obtained And messengers were constantly running between these anxious waiters and the Executive rooms But the delay was not secured and the nomination was rejected, only six Senators voting for it, and the scene, upon the announcement, is said to have been tragical in the extreme The lobbyists gnashed their teeth Shepherd, mortified and humiliated, looked the very impersonation of despair, and one writer says the President himself, when the result was told him, gave way to his feelings and walked his apartments in a towering rage This last statement hardly seems consistent, with the fact that he immediately sent in another nomination which was unanimously confirmed, but certain it is that matters and things waxed very interesting while this Tweed of the District of Columbia was suffering the death penalty.

Hallet Kilbourn a speculator intimately connected with District frauds, refused to answer certain questions before the Investigating Committee So he was put under surveillance A Chronicle reporter in a recent interview with Kilbourn ascertained that that gentleman attributes all his woes to the New York Sun, a paper that "can find out anything Kilbourn is very much disgusted with the Sun as this fragment of the interview will show

Reporter—May not the committee yet report you and Gibson of the Sun to Congress with the recommendation that if you again fail to respond you both be confined in the crypt of the Capitol?

Mr Kilbourn—Well before I would submit to such companionship with that newspaper detective I think I would be willing to disclose all that I have known from the day of my baptism to the present time and in addition give my views respecting affairs in the world to come

In another place we publish the full text of the bill authorizing the Oregon and California Railroad Company or for that company jointly with the Oregon Central Railroad Company to construct a bridge across the Willamette river at Portland This bill passed the Senate June 19th, and passed the House under a suspension of the rules June 22d—late in the afternoon of the last day of the session

LETTER FROM POLK

SUCCESS OF THE FARMERS ENTERPRISE—C[illegible]

ZENA POLK COUNTY June 29 1874

To the Editor of the Oregonian

The election excitement is over and it is indeed a relief to know that two years of peace await the people of Oregon The Independents of Polk are satisfied if they did not get their favorite (Campbell) elected The first news received from the election was that Tolman was elected by 800 majority Great was the rejoicing in the Tolman camp Mart Hayden gave us an anvil chorus until late at night Then the Democrats looked the picture of despair and of course accused the Independent Democrats of the election of Tolman Next by the news came that Grover was elected and then it was the Democrats time to rejoice and Independent Republicans were abused for allowing Grover to beat Tolman In fact the principles and platform of the two regular parties dwindled down on election day to Vote for Tolman to beat Grover and Vote for Grover to beat Tolman but the Independents of Polk not persuaded to approve of one ring candidate to beat the other stood firm and we came out of the fight as far as Polk is concerned redeemed regenerated and disenthralled

The farmers are now having a leisure time Some of them are finding recreation in a trip to the coast attending the Grange and making preparation to celebrate the Fourth at Dixie

Spring Valley Grange No 62 met in their neatly furnished Hall at Zena last Saturday and conferred the fourth degree upon twelve persons This Grange is in a prosperous condition having about one hundred members

Zena is improving Martin & McCurdy have just finished their carriage and wagon shop and are now turning out as nice and substantial work as any firm in Webfoot They have a twenty four foot six inch water wheel in operation and with the aid of water they expect to compete with importers Such enterprises ought to receive the support of the public

The stockholders of the Farmers Warehouse and Shipping Co met at Bethel on the 24th and elected Major W M Walker Ira S Townsend and I C [illegible] as directors for the ensuing year The report made by the Company's agent at Lincoln gave general satisfaction Storage was reduced from five cents per bushel to two and a half cents Three hundred dollars worth of improvements were made during the year and after all expenses were paid the stockholders received twenty per cent dividends This is positive evidence that farmers can all pull together and store their wheat for less than five cents per bushel, and that the farmers along the Willamette river who have been storing in private warehouses have paid for the houses three or four times over and have nothing to show for it The Lincoln Warehouse and Shipping Co organized upon a capital stock of $2,500—250 shares of $10 each—principally owned by farmers purchased the warehouse and wharf belonging to L Abrams & Co put wheat into the market for two and a half cents lower than at any time before made three hundred dollars worth of improvements and declared twenty per cent dividends to stockholders and have the property left to operate with this season Our principal dividend was derived this year from surplus wheat left over after all orders were filled which was something over 600 bushels Warehouse men generally complain that wheat loses weight after it is put in bulk This will do to tell but it is not a fact Trash weeds fern, and blue pod lose weight, but wheat in order does not The directors of the L W and Shipping Co instructed the agent to take an average sack of wheat from each farmer's crop offered for storage with the company and fan out the trash weeds etc, and dock his wheat just what his trash weighed and the result was a surplus left over for the company which they got in dividends

The custom of one farmer's getting as much for 60 pounds of trash as the farmer who summer fallows gets for pure wheat is an outrage and there ought to be some remedy for it It is to be hoped that millers and exporters this year will instruct their agents to purchase nothing but merchantable wheat and then there will be some encouragement for farmers to improve the quality of their grain

The present crop prospect in this part of Polk is unquestionably the finest ever seen by the oldest inhabitant There is at least one fifth more sown than last year and the fields look 20 per cent better than the crop this time last season

CITY.

BOY SHOT—Particulars of the accidental shooting of a small boy, named Lloyd Dameier who resides in this city has just reached us. Dameier in company with another boy left Portland on Saturday morning for a hunt. Young Dameier took a shotgun. These youthful nimrods directed their footsteps towards the east. After traveling some distance beyond East Portland the boys left their wagon and separated to hunt. Very soon Dameier's companion heard the discharge of a gun and almost simultaneously the shout of some one who exclaimed "Oh I am shot." He hastened with all speed in the direction. On reaching the spot Dameier was found standing or rather leaning against a tree looking pale while the blood was observed trickling down the right coat sleeve. By accident—most probable from careless and inexperienced handling—one barrel of the gun was discharged the contents—duck shot—lodging in the fleshy portion of the right forearm. The wounded boy walked to the wagon several hundred yards distant with the assistance of his companion. They started for the city arriving in the afternoon more than satisfied with the result of the day's fowling. Surgical attendance was immediately called and the shot with considerable difficulty extracted from Dameier's limb. We have not been apprised of the full extent of injuries received or the probable necessity of amputation.

PROFESSIONAL SALARIES.—It takes considerable coin to bring a troupe like Maguire's Minstrels to this city. The traveling expenses of the party for the round trip were $900 and the salaries paid to the performers weekly were as follows: Little Mac $100, Bobby Newcomb, $100, Sweatnam $60, Russell $60, Baker, $50, Reed $50, Welch and Rice $40 each, Knight, $60, Harley $30, Murphy, $50, Bodecker $40, Schreiner $40, and three others $15 each. The salaries are below the figures stated to us, but we consider we are nearly correct, and may have overestimated a trifle. When we add the hall rent gas, printing, outside band, ushers and incidentals, the expenses attending the appearance of the troupe in this city may be put down at $3,500. Under the circumstances the receipts should have averaged fully $300 at each performance to come out even. The management were satisfied to come it go, and we think their expectations were realized. Mr. Greenwall is pleased with the reception given the company and may visit us in the fall with something new and attractive.

TRIAL TRIP.—On Saturday the new steamer Welcome just completed at the boneyard made the trial trip. Leaving the boneyard the steamer headed up stream and ascended as far as Milwaukie, when she turned round and came back. Capt J C Ainsworth manipulated the wheel and under his skillful and experienced guidance the little steamer behaved very handsomely. Eighty five pounds of steam was used which was sufficient to send the boat along at a good rate of speed. The engines and machinery were used for a long time on the old steamer Fannie Troup, and have been recently overhauled at the workshop at the Dalles and are nearly as serviceable as when first finished. The Welcome is one of the best boats now owned by the O S N Company according to its dimensions. It is now ready to take any of the several routes on the lower Columbia.

FINE CHERRY TREE.—We have in our office a limb cut from a cherry tree at the residence of Peter Taylor Esq., of this city, which has over two pounds of cherries within a space of fifteen inches length. This limb we cut from a large tree, and taken from the lower branches. We left many nearer the top on which the cherries were equally as thick for five or six feet. The entire tree is a perfect mass of fruit. The cherries resemble the Royal Ann but are a little later. They are called the Spanish cherry.

THANKS.—We are requested by the committee of arrangements on behalf of the Patrons of Husbandry to extend to the officers and employes of the Oregon Central Railroad their sincere thanks for the accommodation and courtesy shown the Order and visitors on the occasion of the Fourth at Hillsboro and also extend to the employes their compliments for the beautiful and appropriate manner in which they dressed the engines (and especially the "Yamhill") in honor of the occasion.

BRIDGE OVER THE WILLAMETTE RIVER.

[From the Congressional Record June 2.]

The next business on the Speaker's table was the bill (S. No. 775) to authorize the construction of a bridge over the Willamette river at Portland, in the State of Oregon.

The bill was read as follows:

Be it enacted, &c., That it shall be lawful for the Oregon and California Railroad Company of Portland, Multnomah county, in the State of Oregon, or for the said company jointly with the Oregon Central Railroad Company of Portland in said State, on such terms as to division of expense as may be agreed upon between said companies to build a railroad bridge across the Willamette river at the city of Portland in said county of Multnomah at a point to be selected and determined by the said railroad company or companies constructing such bridge: Provided, That there shall be placed in said bridge a draw of not less than three hundred feet in width with center abutment not to exceed fifty feet wide, and to be above the water line, leaving a passage on each side of the abutment of not less than one hundred feet in width, and so constructed as not to impede the navigation of said river and allow the easy passage of vessels through said bridge. Such bridge shall be so constructed as to have a wagon road and footway below the railroad track. Provided further, That the said bridge shall be so constructed and built as not to obstruct, impair, or injuriously affect the navigation of the river; and in order to secure a compliance with these conditions the company, association or company proposing to erect the same previous to commencing the construction of the bridge shall submit to the Secretary of War a plan of the bridge with a detailed map of the river at the proposed site of the bridge and for the distance of a mile above and below the site, exhibiting the depths and currents at all points of the same, together with all other information touching said bridge and river as may be deemed requisite by the Secretary of War to determine whether the said bridge when built will conform to the prescribed conditions of the act not to obstruct, impair, or injuriously affect the navigation of the river. Provided further, That the Secretary of War may detail an officer to superintend the survey and examination of said river with a view to said location.

SEC. 2. That the Secretary of War is hereby authorized and directed, upon receiving said plan and map and other information, and upon being satisfied that a bridge built on such a plan and at said locality will conform to the prescribed conditions of this act, not to obstruct, impair, or injuriously affect the navigation of said river, to notify the said corporation, association or company proposing to erect the same that he approves of the same, and upon receiving such notification the said corporation, association or company may proceed to the erection of said bridge, conforming strictly to the approved plan and location. But until the Secretary of War approves the plan and location of said bridge and notifies the said corporation, association or company of the same the bridge shall not be built or commenced.

SEC. 3. That the right to alter or amend this act so as to prevent or remove all material obstruction to the navigation of said river by the construction of said bridge is hereby expressly reserved, and the expense of all improvements or repairs at any time made shall be borne by the company or companies constructing said bridge.

Mr DUNNELL. I wish to inquire if this bill has been before the Committee on Commerce?

Mr CONGER. A bill similar to this was reported by the Committee on Commerce and was passed by the House. The Senate in this bill has added in detail so far as applicable, the restrictions which we impose upon bridges over the Ohio and Mississippi which had been done in shorter language in our bill. There is no objection to passing this bill. I move that the rules be suspended and the bill passed.

The motion was agreed to, two thirds voting in favor thereof.

Vancouver is to have a Commercial College.

The public schoolhouse at Vancouver is to be repaired at a cost of $612.

Wells, Fargo & Co have established a branch express office in Vancouver. S P McDonald is agent.

A Vancouver firm has just completed the loading of the bark Free Trade with staves for the San Francisco market.

H H Pitts, W U T Co operator at Olympia, will leave the office in a few days, and will be succeeded by a young lady from Kalama, Miss Corts by name.

For delinquent taxes, an immense amount of terminus lands in Island county are advertised for sale on the 27th of July. The principal delinquent is the Puget Sound and Lake Superior Land Company who have 17,789 acres there on which there is a tax due of $1,116.

The Seattle people claim everything for their town and vicinity that it is worth the while of any place to have. The latest is a silver lead in which the precious metal is as plenty and pure as—well the like of it never was before. With their iron mountains, coal mines, fisheries, timber, agricultural land and new silver lead Seattle can't be beat.

The Seattle Coal and Transportation Company through their agent Mr Hewes are rapidly getting things in shape for the resumption of coal mining and shipping. Last week Mr Alexander went from Tacoma with forty Chinamen to build the new road and a contract was given the Tacoma company to furnish nearly 200,000 feet of lumber required in the work. Next month they will be selling in the San Francisco market.

Sheriff Coffin, of Clarke county, W. T. took to the Territorial Insane Asylum on Wednesday last week Samuel T Ross who was a short time ago discharged from the Asylum as cured. Ross was adjudged insane about a year ago. After remaining in the Asylum some time he was deemed sufficiently cured to be discharged when he returned to Vancouver and immediately commenced his old freaks of insanity much to the annoyance of friends and neighbors. Complaint was again filed and he was once more arrested and ordered returned as above stated.

A boy aged only eight years son of Mr Kulper of Lewis river W T went out one evening last week after the cows and becoming bewildered lost his way and staid out in the woods all night. He was found next morning in a dense thicket of brush about one mile from home. He was thoroughly self possessed and was endeavoring to make his way out when he was found. He said when it got so dark he could not see to travel, he climbed on to a stump and went to sleep. [illegible] he sought a more sheltered place and waited for daylight. The joy of the parents can well be imagined. He is every inch a pioneer.

DUELING

PATAL M... [illegible] OF DISTINGUISHED MEN

Colonel Thomas H Benton fought several duels and in one of them killed Mr. Lucas.

General Jackson had several affairs and killed Mr Dickinson in a duel, described at length in Parton's life of the iron President.

General Alexander Hamilton was killed in a duel by Aaron Burr in 1804 under circumstances reflecting great discredit upon the latter.

David C Broderick was killed by D. S. Terry of California September 16 1859 in consequence of a difference on the Lecompton question.

George ... Dromgoole of Virginia fought and killed Mr Dugger a gentleman of the same State in 1837 in a border county of North Carolina.

The causeless and fatal duel between Jonathan Cilley of Maine and William J Graves of Kentucky was fought near Washington in 1838. Mr Cilley was killed after having first previously said that he meant ... the highest respect and must find nothing for his adversary.

The mortal combat between two post captains of the navy Stephen Decatur and James Barron at Bladensburg on the 22d of March 1820 will never be forgotten. At the first shot both fell. They fired so near together that an eye witness said that but one report was heard. Decatur was killed and Barron severely wounded.

General J. W. Denver a member of the State Senate of California had a controversy with Hon Edward Gilbert ex member of Congress in 1852 in regard to some legislation which resulted in a challenge from Gilbert that was accepted by Denver. Rifles were the weapons. Gilbert fell at the second shot and expired in a few minutes.

Among the many memorable duels and which ... some of the most famous were those of D... and O'Connell the illustrious Irish Liberator. For using the phrase "a beggarly corporation" in relation to the city of Dublin he was challenged by D'Esterre, a member of that body who would take no apology. O'Connell killed him at the first fire. This was in 1815.

A great duel took place near Washington in 1816 between General Armistead T Mason Senator in Congress from Virginia and the celebrated John M. McCarty. They were brothers in law and fought with muskets. McCarty did not want to fight but Mason pressed him. McCarty proposed to fight on a barrel of powder or with dirks. Both modes were objected to and finally McCarty accepted the muskets. Colonel McCarty killed General Mason at the first fire, the ball passing through his breast.—Forney's Recollections.

THE INVALID—A PEN PICTURE.

See her pallid countenance, but a short time ago the picture of ruddy health the envy of the school and the pride of the household. She was always welcome by her schoolmates for her blithe form and pleasing disposition carried cheerfulness into their ranks. Beloved, punctual and exemplary, obedient and grateful at home she won the hearts of all. But alas, we are sorrowful. Her once cheeks and ruddy lips are blanched by Consumption. The voice once so charming in laugh and song is feeble, husky and supplanted by a hollow cough. Let us approach her ... gently and take her hand. Don't hold it too long. The feeble hand is fast losing its grasp. The hand once so hearty and plump is emaciated, and how convulsively tremble the cords and tortuous veins with which the fingers, upon the surface. The pulse flickers faint and irregular ... with depletion ... the whole system, and imparting life, beauty, vivacity, health and strength is delicate to the touch. The feeble heart cannot propel the thin, scanty blood with force. Must we lose her while yet in her teens? Companions and friends gather around with words of cheer and consolation and depart with moistened eyes and silent steps. Must we lose her? No! There is relief! We can stay this destroyer of our happiness and not suffer the loss of so bright a gem. Something more is required now than dietary and hygienic observance for nature calls for aid and she shall have it. Take this pleasant medicine. It is invigorating. How it allays the irritable cough, improves the appetite and digestion and sends a healthy tingle through the frame. The blood is enriched, nervous force increased and the heart bounds with new impulse. See her face brighten by degrees the color is returning, her voice is getting clearer and pleasant words are spoken. Her strength falters yet, but is gaining. Let us take her out in the warm sunshine. In a short time she will be able to go without our aid, a cheerful girl. This delightful medicine must be God blessed. It is restoring health to our loved one. She is emerging from her sickness sweeter and nobler than before and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery must have the credit. It has raised her.

S. R. Lee, An druggist of West Union, O., says that Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has effected a wonderful cure of Consumption in his neighborhood.

This being a legal holiday no business being transacted at the bank and but few houses are open for the transaction of commercial matters hence nothing of importance is found in our local market upon which to comment. We are in receipt of European papers of a late date from which we learn the following facts relative to the condition of finances in that country. The money market in London during May and earlier part of June ruled very firm, and the floating supply of capital has been restricted. This has not arisen from any increase in the commercial requirements. On the contrary the number of bills offering has been few and the payments which matured on the 4th were exceptionally light. The rate for two and three months bills has not exceeded 3¾ and 3⅞ per cent and transactions have been reported to have occurred a fraction under the first-mentioned quotation. The chief business during the month of June was in short loans on stock for which there was a strong demand. The Bank Directors made no change in the official minimum on their last meeting and it remains at 4 per cent.

The return of the Bank of France for the week ending Thursday the 7th ult, shows the following changes, as compared with the previous account

INCREASE.

Cash in hand	£757 010
Private deposits	1 001 800
Advances	90,840

DECREASE.

Bills discounted	3 131 120
Notes in circulation	317 700
Treasury balance	378 250

Porportion between bullion and circulation 12¾ per cent.

The return of the Bank of Prussia for the week ending the 30th of May shows the following changes, viz An increase of £37 700 in bills discounted, £317 650 in the notes in circulation and £168 750 in the notes in hand the items of decrease having comprised a diminution of £27 000 in the cash in hand, £14 100 in the private deposits the proportion of assets to liabilities showing 7 2 10ths per cent.

Miscellanous.

A remarkable feature of the China trade is the increased aggregate demand for bills on China and the special demand for bills payable in Trade Dollars. These are half per cent. premium over those payable in the local currency Mexicans or sycee. Thus a Bank of California bill payable in Hongkong in Trade Dollars is taken at 4½ premium while bills payable in Hongkong in the local currency are 2½@ per cent. The Trade Dollars are shipped to cover the bills. The Chinese public are getting rapidly to prefer the Trade Dollar hence the desire to have bills payable in that coin

The expression of our State exchanges touching the condition of the growing crops in Oregon indicates that late grain will be much ahead of early. It is one of the exceptionable seasons. All grain will be good but late grain will exceed the most sanguine expectations of two months ago

A local paper says the amount of lumber which is being used in Yamhill county this season is simply immense. We have not the means to make an estimate upon it but we are confident that were such an estimate placed in figures it would be a matter surprising to most of our readers, and perhaps incredible to those who have not had an opportunity of observing what is going on in our county at large.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship John L Stephens sailed from San Francisco for this port to-day.

The steamship Idaho is about due from San Francisco. She will probably load with salmon

The bark Achievement will complete her cargo of wheat and flour next week and sail for Liverpool from Barnard & Griswold's wharf

The Forward is at the North End Mills receiving lumber. The Garibaldi is idle at Flanders' wharf. The barkentine Webfoot at Central dock, has her cargo all discharged

WASHINGTON

THE STRENGTH OF THE [illegible] OF HIS COUNTRY—ANECDOTES OF HIS [illegible] POWER.

General Wilson relates [illegible] of a conversation with Mr Curtis [illegible] which he obtained personal reminiscences of Washington. During a visit at the Arlington House Virginia in 1871 the writer asked Mr Curtis if Washington could like Marshal Saxe break a horseshoe and received for reply that he had no doubt he could had he tried for his hands were the largest and most powerful he had ever seen. Mr Curtis [illegible] several instances of the General's strength, of which I recall the following. When Washington was a young man he was present on one occasion as looker on at wrestling games then the fashion in Virginia. Tired of the sport he had retired to the shade of a tree where he sat perusing a pamphlet, till challenged by the hero of the day and the strongest wrestler in the State. Washington declined till being taunted with the remark that he feared to try conclusions with the gladiator he calmly came forward and without removing his coat grappled with his antagonist. There was a fierce struggle for a brief space of time when the champion was hurled to the ground with such tremendous force as to jar the very marrow of his bones. Another instance of his prodigious power was his throwing the stone across the Rappahannock at Fredericksburg—a feat that it is quite safe to say has never been performed since.

Later in life a number of young gentlemen were contending at Mount Vernon in the exercise of throwing the bar. Washington after looking on for some time walked forward saying "Allow me to try" and grasping the bar sent the iron flying through the air twenty feet beyond the furthest [illegible] Still later in life [illegible] Washington [illegible] age was like a lusty winter frosty yet kindly [illegible] observed three of his workmen at Mount Vernon [illegible] endeavoring to raise a large stone [illegible] tired of witnessing the unsuccessful attempt he put them aside and taking it in his iron grasp lifted it to its place remounted his horse and rode on

CIVIL SERVICE IN MASSACHUSETTS The Springfield Republican makes some comments upon the [illegible] dispute from Representative G F Hoar in reference to Weigher in the Boston Custom House who was removed recently. There is said the Republican no more civil service reform in retaining an unnecessary or incompetent clerk because he is a Hoar man or Pierce man or a Williams man than in retaining another clerk of that description because he is a Butler man. To allow Messrs Hoar Pierce and Williams to run the Custom House is just as scandalous as to allow their Gloucester colleague to run it, and there is a good deal of Butlerism, both at Washington and in Massachusetts, outside of the Butler party
